Hanson PLC to acquire US brick manufacturer for $40.4 million (GBP21.6m)

Hanson PLC, the international building materials company, announced today that it has acquired US brick manufacturer Athens Brick Company, Inc. ("Athens") from Texas Industries, Inc. (NYSE:TXI) for $40.4 million (GBP21.6m) in cash (on a debt-free basis and subject to usual post-closing adjustments).

Athens produces facing brick used in residential and commercial construction from two plants in Texas and one in western Louisiana. It primarily serves markets in Texas and its adjoining states, including the major metropolitan areas of Dallas/Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio and Austin in Texas and Shreveport in Louisiana. The combined annual capacity of Athens' plants, which employ approximately 90 people, is 90 million brick. Athens controls clay and shale reserves sufficient for more than twenty years' production.

Edgar Filing: HANSON PLC - Form 6-K

In its fiscal year ending May 31, 2003, Athens generated unaudited revenues of $14.7 million and EBITDA of $6.5 million. During that period Athens shipped 84 million brick. After taking into account possible fair value adjustments, it is currently estimated that goodwill of approximately $20 million (GBP10.7m) will arise on this acquisition.

The Athens plants will be integrated into Hanson Brick's South Central Region, bringing its combined capacity of facing brick in the area to approximately 450 million brick across eight plants (see attached plant location map). This region consumes a significant portion of the total US facing brick output and US Census Bureau projections for population growth in Texas for the foreseeable future are well ahead of the national average.

Mike Donahue, President of Hanson Brick & Tile, stated: "With the previously announced consolidation of our North American brick businesses now well underway, we are very excited to be able to make this significant addition to our existing operations. While we expect some operating efficiencies as a result of the combination, its true advantages are the enhanced product offering and increased capacity that will benefit our customers in this dynamic region of the country."

Richard Manning, President of Hanson Building Products North America, added: "The acquisition of Athens is consistent with Hanson's strategy of pursuing bolt-on acquisitions where we can enhance existing strong positions in our core products and markets. Athens will strengthen our presence in the South Central region and is anticipated to be earnings enhancing from the outset."

In 2003 Hanson embarked on integrating and re-branding its seven brick businesses into one unified company - "Hanson Brick". With a capacity of 1.6 billion brick from 22 plants (excluding Athens), Hanson Brick is the largest brick manufacturer in North America and the third largest in the USA.
