Item 5. Interest in Securities of the Company.

Item 5 is amended and restated to read as follows:

(a) - (c) Motorola is the beneficial owner (as defined in Rule 13d-3 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the Exchange Act)) of 77,190,768 shares of Nextel Class A Common Stock¹ (constituting 6.97% of the total outstanding shares of Nextel's Class A Common Stock). As to such shares, Motorola may be deemed to exercise sole voting and sole dispositive power with respect to 70,167,768 shares and shared voting and dispositive power as to 7,023,000 shares (including 29,053,780 and 606,220 shares of Class B Non-Voting Common Stock, respectively, which are convertible in certain circumstances into Class A Common Stock).

(d) Not applicable.

(e) Not applicable.

Item 6. Contracts, Arrangements, Understandings or Relationships with Respect to Securities of the Issuer.

The ninth paragraph of Item 6 is amended and restated to read as follows:

Edgar Filing: NEXTEL COMMUNICATIONS INC - Form SC 13D/A

In addition, as long as Motorola continued to own (as such term is defined in the Contribution and Merger Agreement) 5% of the outstanding shares of Nextel Common Stock, subject to specified conditions, Motorola had a right to nominate two members for election to the Nextel Board (the Board Nomination Right). Until January 1, 2004, Keith Bane, Motorola's former Executive Vice President and President, Global Strategy and Corporate, had been nominated by Motorola and elected as a director of the Nextel Board pursuant to the Board Nomination Right. On January 1, 2004, Mr. Bane resigned from this position and the Nextel Board elected him to fill a vacant board seat that was not subject to Motorola's Board Nomination Right. As a result of the sale of 6 million shares of Nextel Class B Common pursuant to the 2004 Sale Agreement, Motorola is no longer considered to own (as such term is defined in the Contribution and Merger Agreement) 5% of the outstanding shares of Nextel Common Stock for purposes of determining its eligibility for the Board Nomination Right and therefore, is no longer entitled to such Board Nomination Right. At the time of the sale of the 6 million Nextel shares pursuant to the 2004 Sale Agreement, Motorola had not exercised its Board Nomination Right since January 1, 2004.

The twelfth paragraph of Item 6 is restated to read as follows:

Also in connection with the Securities Purchase Agreement, Motorola granted Investor an option to purchase up to an additional 18,000,000 shares of Nextel Common Stock (adjusted to reflect Nextel's 2:1 stock split effective June 7, 2000) in three tranches over a six-year period. The Investor exercised its option to purchase the first tranche in full on August 25, 1997 and its option to purchase the second tranche in full on August 25, 1999. The remaining tranche was exercisable for up to 10,000,000 shares at $10.75 per share (adjusted to reflect Nextel's 2:1 stock split effective June 7, 2000) during the 30-day period following July 28, 2001. Such option was not exercised and expired by its terms. In addition, subject to certain limitations, Motorola granted Investor a right of first refusal to purchase shares of Nextel Common Stock owned by Motorola. However, on February 14, 2003, Investor waived its right of first refusal under the Securities Purchase Agreement to purchase shares of Nextel Common Stock owned by Motorola in connection with the sale of up to 60,000,000 shares of Nextel Common Stock by Motorola, either in one or more brokers' transactions, in one or more negotiated sales, in one or more deferred sale transactions with a broker-dealer firm pursuant to variable rate forward sale contracts or similar arrangements, in a combination thereof or otherwise through the end of 2003. Investor has acknowledged that a sale or sales made pursuant to a deferred sale transaction such as a forward sale contract or similar arrangement shall be deemed consummated upon entering the deferred sale agreement and that the future settlement of such arrangement shall be covered by the waiver previously described.

Item 6 is amended to add the following paragraph as the thirteenth paragraph of Item 6:

On March 5, 2003, Nextel, Investor and Craig O. McCaw announced the termination of the Securities Purchase Agreement. In connection with this termination, the existence of the Operations Committee was terminated. Accordingly, at the time of the 2004 Sale Agreement, the conditions necessary under the Securities Purchase Agreement for the right of first refusal that Motorola had granted to Investor to remain effective were no longer met and, as a result, Investor did not have a right of first refusal in connection with the sale of the 6 million shares of Nextel Class B Common sold pursuant to the 2004 Sale Agreement.
