Item 5. Other Events

On November 3, 2000, Huffey Corporation completed the sale of its then wholly owned subsidiary, Washington Inventory Service ( WIS ) to WIS Holdings Corp. Under the terms of the Agreement and Plan of Reorganization, Huffey Corporation agreed to indemnify the purchaser and WIS against certain possible third party claims related to the period prior to Huffey Corporation's sale of WIS.

In mid-September, 2002, the Los Angeles Superior Court certified a class of workers in the suit Perez v. Washington Inventory Service, which alleges violations of certain wage and labor laws by WIS in the State of California occurring both before and after Hufffy Corporation's sale of WIS. Although not named in the suit, Hufffy Corporation was represented at the initial settlement mediation session of Perez v. Washington Inventory Service held on October 23, 2002, as a potential indemnitor. The mediation session ended without resolution.

Then, on October 7, 2002 Hufffy Corporation was added as a defendant in another suit against WIS, Miranda v. Washington Inventory Service, filed in the United States District Court for the Central District of California, seeking class certification and alleging that WIS was obligated to cover the costs of employee uniforms and maintenance thereof. Like the Perez case, this suit seeks damages relating to periods both before and after Hufffy Corporation's sale of WIS. Under the suit, Hufffy Corporation's potential liability is limited to the period prior to its sale of WIS.

Hufffy Corporation cannot at this time predict the likelihood of certification of a class in Miranda v. Washington Inventory Service, the outcome of future mediation sessions in either case, or the materiality of the outcome under its indemnity obligations whether these matters are successfully mediated or proceed to litigation.
