RE: Immunex Acquisition Update

As we prepare for the close of the Amgen/Immunex acquisition over the next several months, we want to keep you as informed as possible on integration planning, regulatory progress, legal sensitivities and communications.

Integration Planning Team Established

Our Acquisition Integration team is formed and starting to plan for the integration of the two companies, following the close of the transaction.

We are pleased to announce that Scott Foraker has been appointed to lead the team. With Scott's knowledge of the various legal sensitivities surrounding an acquisition, his familiarity with Amgen's Research and Development organization and experience in managing major initiatives, he will be a tremendous asset to the team. Scott has over seven-and-a-half years of Amgen experience and currently holds the position of Vice President of Licensing where he has been instrumental in Amgen's licensing and acquisition of new products and technologies. Previously, he was Associate General Counsel with responsibility in the Law Department for the International, Licensing and Corporate Development functions. He also served in other roles in the Law Department, including commencing Amgen's legal function in Europe.

Scott will retain overall responsibility for the Licensing Department, but has transitioned his day-to-day licensing duties to Bruce Burton so he can dedicate himself full-time to leading the Integration effort. To effectively coordinate integration planning activities, Scott will work closely with the Executive Committee (and a subset of this group formed specifically to oversee the integration), Peggy Phillips, Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer of Immunex, and other members of the core integration team, who include:

o Project Manager	Carl LeBel
o Chief of Staff	Brad Crawford
o Research & Development	Tony Gringeri
o Sales & Marketing	Kevin Young
o Regulatory	David Goodkin
o Operations/Quality/Process Development	Randy Hassler
o Finance	Del Peterson
o Human Resources	John Hillins
o Information Technology	Ole Mikkelsen
o Communications	Becky Malkerson
o Legal	Tom Zindrick/Ron Levy
o Synergy	Jay Hagan
o Research & Development/Immunex	Doug Williams & Dale Scott/Immunex
o Communications/Immunex	Valoree Dowell/Immunex

Where necessary, the core team will be supplemented with sub-teams to address function-specific issues. The major responsibilities of the team are determining the strategic direction for the integration and planning and coordination of all integration activities. The major thrust of the team will be to ensure minimal disruption to our current businesses, while meeting the business objectives of the integration.

Regulatory Update

On the regulatory front, the acquisition is subject to review by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). In addition, Immunex has made the decision to divest Leukine(R) and the company will be looking for a potential buyer.

Legal Sensitivities & Communications

Legally, the acquisition is also subject to approval by both Amgen and Immunex shareholders. We want to remind you that there are certain legal constraints on how much information can be shared between the companies and with staff at this time. Within the various legal and other constraints, we will seek to provide you with information throughout the integration process as it becomes available.

A number of staff members have asked about what information they may share with Immunex before the closing. The FTC prohibits joint discussions and joint actions before the closing that may change the competitive status quo. Therefore, Amgen and Immunex staff should not share with each other information about products or pipeline products where there is arguably competitive overlap, or make any joint decisions about such products, if that information or decision could impact competition. Prior to the closing, we will also be prohibited from making any decisions on behalf of Immunex and similarly we will want to avoid even the perception that we may be making decisions for Immunex. Because of these legal complexities that govern our communications with Immunex, before engaging in any joint discussion or activity with Immunex prior to closing, please contact Scott Foraker to be certain that it is permissible.

As a reminder, it is also imperative that all acquisitions-related communications be reviewed before it is issued, distributed or used. This includes communications to all audiences, both internal and external, such as employees, investors, analysts, suppliers, customers and others. In some cases, the communications may need to be filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission. As a first step, please contact your communications specialist to review the acquisition-related communications before it is distributed. Key communications contacts are as follows:

- o Operations/Quality/Process Development Mary Oeffling at x74639
- o Research and Development Dave Kaye at x76692
- o Sales and Marketing Vinca Weatherly at x74379
- o Corporate Functions (Finance, Strategy, Legal, HR & Communications) Diana Campau at x77009
- o Media Relations Jeff Richardson at x73227
- o Investor Relations Cary Rosansky at x74634

These contacts will be responsible for routing all materials through Corporate Communications who will make sure it receives the appropriate legal, regulatory and Integration team review before it is distributed.
