FTC CLEARS MERGER OF MOLSON/COORS

The Denver Post reported the merger of Adolph Coors Company and Molson Inc. took a step forward Tuesday when U.S. regulators gave antitrust clearance for the proposed Molson Coors merger.

According to The Daily Deal, the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) announced that it does not have antitrust objections to the deal.

Regulators suspended the 30-day waiting period for antitrust investigations and are allowing the transaction to move ahead. No antitrust problems were found with the merger, so the full 30-day wait was suspended, reported Washington (AP).

Still required are Canadian antitrust clearance, Securities and Exchange Commission clearance of the merger proxy document that will be sent to shareholders, and shareholder votes. Molson has tentatively scheduled a mid-December shareholder vote. Coors has not yet scheduled a vote.

Editor's Note: The regulatory clearance mentioned above is one of several steps that must be completed in order for the merger to be approved.

Coors has filed a preliminary joint proxy statement/management information circular regarding the proposed transaction with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Stockholders are urged to read the definitive joint proxy statement/management information circular when it becomes available, because it will contain important information. Stockholders will be able to obtain a free copy of the definitive joint proxy statement/management information circular, as well as other filings containing information about Coors, without charge, at the Securities and Exchange Commission's internet site (<http://www.sec.gov>).
