Dear Mr. Gabelli:

In last years annual report to shareholders you wrote:

While the market price of our stock has benefited from the improved position of the Company, we do not believe that the current stock price is reflective of the underlying value of the Companys businesses and assets and we are actively exploring options for the near term and long term value creation.

Since that time LGLs stock price has fallen by 35% to just above $8 per share. We assume you and the rest of the members of the board of directors and management are as disappointed with the Companys performance and stock price as us. We have spoken to several other LGL shareholders who echo our disappointment and concern.

Edgar Filing: LGL GROUP INC - Form SC 13D/A

At the 2007 annual meeting you spoke of using LGL as a platform for growth in a fragmented electronics industry. Clearly, given the Companys stock price and recent poor operating performance that strategy is no longer an option. Further, LGLs tiny size and significant overhead make the status quo untenable. Therefore, we believe you should immediately and aggressively pursue a sale of the Company. This is the only means by which we can see protecting and maximizing shareholder value. In our view, any other course of action would put shareholders at great risk.

We would appreciate a prompt and substantive response to our proposal that the board should pursue a sale of the Company.

Very truly yours,

Andrew Dakos
