Celltech Launches Specialist UK Pharmaceutical Sales and Marketing Organisation

19 May 2003, Celltech Group plc today announced the launch of its new specialist UK pharmaceutical sales and marketing organisation, created as part of its global strategy of aligning sales and marketing capabilities towards specialist-focused audiences.

Celltech's new UK organisation consists of a hospital specialist sales force and a dedicated NHS liaison team and will initially concentrate on its current product portfolio including Dipentum®, a treatment for ulcerative colitis. The establishment of this new organisation will also allow Celltech to prepare for the sales and marketing of future products in its development pipeline.

The combined hospital and NHS specialist sales force has 265 years collective experience gained at over 40 pharmaceutical companies. Celltech has made several new senior appointments, including Mark Cook as NHS Business Manager, who joins from the Medical Defense Union, Martin Willmott as Regional Business Manager, who has had experience at Aventis and Schering Healthcare and Ewan Barbour as Regional Business Manager, from Chiesi/Trinity.

Guy Francis has been appointed as National Sales Manager joining Celltech from The Royce Consultancy. Guy started his career as a GP/hospital representative progressing to the South London Teaching Hospitals. More recently, Guy has been Group Divisional Business Manager at Searle and later Pharmacia.
