The following is a letter that was distributed by Chicago Bridge & Iron Company N.V. to its customers on December 18, 2017.

Dear Valued Customer,

We are pleased to share some important news regarding CB&I. We have announced an agreement to combine with McDermott International, Inc. When we complete this combination next year, we will be creating a premier, vertically integrated engineering, procurement, fabrication, construction and installation provider across the energy infrastructure industry with significant scale, diversification and global presence. A copy of the news release we issued recently and other materials related to the transaction can be found on our website, www.CBI.com.

In August, we had announced our intent to sell our Technology and former Engineered Products businesses to strengthen the Company's balance sheet. However, after careful consideration by our Supervisory Board and management team, we ultimately decided to pursue this alternative path for CB&I. We believe this transaction is the best path forward for our company and will create significant long-term opportunities for customers and our employees.

As you may know, McDermott is a leading provider of integrated engineering, procurement, construction and installation services for offshore and subsea field developments worldwide. McDermott delivers fixed and floating production facilities, pipelines and subsea systems from concept to commissioning to help oil companies safely produce and transport hydrocarbons. Founded in 1923, it has a reputation for innovative designs, high quality construction, global installation resources and disciplined project execution.

Together with McDermott, we will have a broadened reach across the entire energy industry, a substantial competitive advantage that responds to the evolving needs of our customers, along with the ability to provide differentiated end-to-end engineered and constructed facility solutions executed to maximize your asset value. The combined company will benefit from an enhanced financial profile primed to drive growth and achieve significant synergies, will have a stronger capital structure and is expected to generate strong free cash flow. Further, our companies are united by a common culture focused on safety, risk management and customer engagement, which we believe will help to ensure a seamless transition for our customers across the globe. McDermott's President and CEO, David

Dickson, will lead the combined company following the close of the transaction. Additionally, I will stay with the company for a transition period in order to assist with the integration efforts as we work to ensure the capabilities and synergies of the combined company are maximized.

While we believe there are many reasons to be excited about this combination, this announcement is just the first step. We expect the transaction to close in the second quarter of 2018, subject to customary legal and regulatory requirements and closing conditions. Until that time, CB&I and McDermott will continue to operate as independent companies and it remains business as usual. You should expect to see no changes to your products, services or contracts as a result of this announcement, and we will continue operating at the same high standards.

As always, if you have any additional questions, please do not hesitate to reach out to your regular contact. We will be sure to keep you informed as events warrant as we work toward completing the transaction with McDermott.

Thank you for your continued confidence in CB&I. We look forward to continuing our partnership for years to come.

Sincerely,

Patrick K. Mullen

President and Chief Executive Officer
