From: Joe Lacher, CEO and President, Kemper

Subject: Infinity-Kemper Integration Update

Date: 4/13/18

As we continue to prepare for the merger of our companies, I want to take this opportunity to review the planning activities underway to successfully integrate our organizations. As noted before, our combined companies will expand and enhance our presence and ability to serve policyholders.

Communication

Our senior leadership teams have established a great working relationship. We re focused on building an open and collaborative work environment, allowing us to build an organization that will achieve long-term success. The cooperative efforts of the leadership team are enabling us to achieve that goal.

As we work through integration planning, we know you have questions, so we re providing an updated FAQ document (attached) with additional information on questions received to date. You re also able to submit questions through new mailboxes we ve established and indicated at the end of this message. You can also find links to these mailboxes and all the information we ve provided to-date on our respective information sites (MyKemper and Workday). We ll update the FAQ document as more information becomes available.

Within the next week, we will be providing you with some initial details of our long-term and interim P&C organizational structures that will be effective upon closing. As we're still in the planning phases, every role and responsibility has not yet been defined, but as key decisions are made for functional areas we want to make sure we're communicating that information to you. These initial discussions will accelerate our strong progress to date.

It's important to remember that, until the transaction is closed, Kemper and Infinity must continue to operate as separate companies and compete in the marketplace. That being said, we have teams that are committed to working on our combined organization so we can begin operations. Keeping these two activities separate is important, and until close, communication between our two companies is being managed by the integration team.

Our Statement of Purpose

To help drive our strategic planning and decision-making during the integration, we've developed a Statement of Purpose specific to our combined P&C organization. It allows us to have a clear vision for the future of Infinity and Kemper together that is sustainable, well-understood, and embraced by our team members.

Statement of Purpose

We believe in providing those in underserved communities with affordable products and services to help them achieve financial security. We will achieve this by:

Focusing our efforts on customers in urban, Hispanic, and other niche markets

Providing products and services that meet their unique and changing needs

Ensuring affordability through a low-cost business model

Creating a customer experience that builds trust and reliability

The Integration Process

The journey to a combined operation requires a coordinated integration planning effort that involves key workstreams across the business, functional areas, and product and service lines spanning both Kemper and Infinity. Charles Brooks, SVP of Operations and Systems at Kemper, and Sam Simon, Infinity's President and General Counsel, are leading our integration planning efforts, along with a Steering Committee of leaders and integration workstreams that represent each functional area at both Kemper and Infinity.

Our integration planning teams are working hard and making progress to identify our collective strengths. This includes understanding the details of our respective structures, talent, products, services, distribution, operations and IT systems, among other capabilities and processes. The teams have developed a comprehensive integration plan, with the goal to have a seamless, positive experience for employees, agents, customers and other stakeholders.

You may be involved in providing information or other support to the integration planning teams, and we appreciate your urgency and cooperation to keep the integration process moving forward as planned.

Timeline of Major Milestones

To aid in your understanding of the critical steps from announcement to closing, attached is an overview of the major milestones in the integration planning process. Note that this timeline reflects the sequence of events, and not the actual amount of time between events. Many of these milestones reflect ongoing efforts, and the order, timing and completion of events may change.

Shareholder and Regulatory Approvals

As you know, we're targeting the transaction's legal and financial close for the third quarter 2018. Completing the transaction requires approval of both companies' shareholders and certain regulatory entities, and we are making progress on these fronts. We've already received federal antitrust approval, have made appropriate filings with insurance regulators in the four states that must approve the transaction, and are now responding to follow-up questions. In addition, last week we made the initial filing with the SEC to get the shareholder approval process underway. We are pleased with the progress to date.

I want to thank those of you directly involved in the integration efforts as well as those that are supporting the teams through your regular job responsibilities. Everyone is going above and beyond to make this merger successful.

We will continue to update you with details through our integration planning leads as we work towards the closing date. At the same time, we must keep our focus and sense of urgency as we execute on delivering strong performance and service to our customers, agents and other stakeholders.

Thank you for your dedication and commitment as we work through this transition.

Sincerely,

Joe Lacher
