As an independent researcher, Dr. Hazekamp worked closely with government agencies, universities and pharmaceutical companies. Some relevant experiences during this period (2005-2011) include his involvement in the early phase of Echo Pharmaceuticals (a Dutch pharmaceutical company developing a sublingual administration form of THC and other cannabinoids) and validation studies for the German company Storz&Bickel (basis for the successful development of the Volcano Medic, a vaporizer device specifically designed for inhalation of medicinal cannabis). Dr. Hazekamp is considered an expert on standardized growing, quality control, and product development. He is an active traveler and medicinal cannabis advocate.
