CRYPTOLOGIC LIMITED RECEIVES LISTING APPROVAL FOR LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE

Listing approved on all exchanges; all Canadian shareholders retain one-to-one voting rights

June 14, 2007 (Dublin, IRELAND, and Toronto, CANADA) CryptoLogic Limited, a leading software developer to the global Internet gaming market, announced today that it has been approved for its new listing on the London Stock Exchange (LSE). The recently reorganized company trades on the LSE, NASDAQ and Toronto Stock Exchange.

The listing approval relates to CryptoLogic's reorganization into a company incorporated under the laws of Guernsey with a corporate headquarters in Dublin. CryptoLogic shareholders approved the proposed arrangement at a special meeting held in Toronto on May 24th. It has been confirmed that all shareholders of CryptoLogic Limited and CryptoLogic Exchange Corporation will retain one-for-one voting rights, regardless of where they reside.

More than 90 per cent of CryptoLogic's licensee revenue is generated from the U.K. and continental Europe, widely known as the industry's most attractive markets. CryptoLogic has long advocated the regulation of Internet gaming for the protection of players and the credibility of the industry, and remains one of the few providers whose software has passed the industry's most stringent regulatory tests.

CryptoLogic's new European base brings the company closer to its core customer base and their principal markets, and supports the company's global growth strategy, including expansion into Asia.
