On August 16, 2008, David A. Peacock, Vice President-Marketing of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., issued the e-mail set forth below to the employees of Anheuser-Busch Companies, Inc.

August 16, 2008

To: All Anheuser-Busch Employees

Members of the integration team met this week with the Steering Committee to continue work on preparatory workstreams for the combination of Anheuser-Busch and InBev.

The Steering Committee is comprised of two InBev board members, Marcel Telles and Peter Harf, Brito and an adviser, former Gillette CEO Jim Kilts, who oversaw the merger of P&G and Gillette. The group reviewed the structure of the integration team, the key activities planned, milestones and the ways in which Bain Consulting and the legal advisers will support the work being done in order to ensure that all exchanges of data prior to closing comply with information sharing guidelines. The meeting went well and the next steering team meeting will be in 2 weeks. Another step was also taken Friday with Anheuser-Busch's filing of our preliminary proxy statement relating to the proposed merger with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). This might generate additional news coverage.

The statement notifies Anheuser-Busch shareholders that there will be a special shareholders meeting to consider and vote on the merger and encourages them to vote by proxy (by phone, mail or Internet) in advance, regardless of whether they plan to attend the meeting. Once we receive clearance from the SEC, the definitive proxy statement containing the date and location of the special meeting will be mailed to all Anheuser-Busch shareholders.

Meanwhile, InBev is preparing for its extraordinary general meeting of shareholders, with timing to be announced shortly.

The Anheuser-Busch preliminary proxy statement also provides shareholders with more information about the merger agreement, answering some questions about the process.

Included are more details about the special 2008 integration bonuses for 60 employees and the special 2009 integration bonuses and enhanced severance for 360 employees, including the 60. We have received many questions from employees asking who is included and when they will be notified. The 360 people are I and J Band employees and the officers of the company. All will be notified of their inclusion in these programs. These special compensations are designed to retain leaders in our company as is customary with merger agreements.

These special compensations are also tied to Blue Ocean performance objectives. Tim Farrell announced the Enhanced Retirement Program earlier this week, and employees are eager to know their place in the future organization, or about any additional staff reductions, particularly in light of these Blue Ocean objectives. Please keep in mind that Blue Ocean is much more than a personnel initiative, it is a comprehensive program that relies on ideas of employees at all levels to find new ways to improve productivity, eliminate unneeded processes and costs, reduce energy and water use and improve our business overall. Our planned staff reductions are expected to be between 10 and 15 percent of our salaried workforce and will be primarily achieved by the ERP, attrition and not filling open positions.

In addition to August Busch IV's new position on the InBev board of directors after closing, InBev intends to enter into a consulting agreement with him through 2013 to benefit from his expertise and knowledge of the U.S. market and the Anheuser-Busch business. As outlined in the preliminary proxy statement, August will provide support to the new company from time to time in multiple areas in the U.S. business, including relationships with wholesalers, the community and charitable organizations.

The integration team continues to have productive meetings with our InBev counterparts, Brito and Bain, all helping to move the process forward quickly, but thoroughly. Please remember that, until closing, Anheuser-Busch and InBev remain competitors. We cannot make decisions or participate in making decisions that affect the other company's current business operations except as related to our existing U.S. import agreement or our ongoing international operations with InBev in Canada and South Korea. Interactions with InBev should occur only through the integration teams.

We will keep you updated regularly on milestones in this process and as new information becomes available. If you have any questions, please feel free to send to this e-mail address: abcomm@anheuser-busch.com. Thank you for your continued focus on the business and delivering outstanding sales results for the company this summer.
